SUNCORP MANAGEMENT CHANGE

Suncorp today announced that Mark Blucher, group executive integration, would leave the company at the end of August.

Acting chief executive Chris Skilton said Mr Blucher had decided it was an appropriate time to leave now the integration of the Suncorp and Promina businesses had been successfully completed.

"I would like to acknowledge Mark's contribution during his time at Suncorp and, in particular, the outstanding leadership he provided during one of the largest financial services integrations in recent years," Mr Skilton said.

"Mark ensured that integration was completed on time, and the synergies we had targeted were successfully delivered. During his time at Suncorp, Mark held a number of senior executive roles and he performed with distinction in each of these. I would like to wish him all the best for his future endeavours."

Mr Blucher joined Suncorp in 1997 and was appointed group executive integration in 2007. He will continue to serve on the AA Insurance Board.
